

“Our Vision is to be a House of Healing to the Nations,
Reflecting the Glory of God, Full of Grace and Truth.”

COLLECT FOR 1ST SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY

O God, the strength of all those who put their trust in you, mercifully accept our prayers and, because through the weakness of our mortal nature we can do no good thing without you, grant us the help of your grace, that in the keeping of your commandments we may please you both in will and deed; through Jesus Christ your Son our Lord, who is alive and reigns with you, in the unity of the Holy Spirit, one God, now and forever.

Article: The Cry of the Spirit

Read: Galatians 4:4–7

When we recite creeds and confessions, we usually read things like the Westminster Confession and the Nicene Creed, statements that have defined the boundaries of Christian orthodoxy in the post-apostolic age. Yet it should be noted that creeds and confessions were also central to worship and discipleship during the time of the apostles, and the New Testament apparently records many creedal statements from the first-century church. Philippians 2:5–11, for example, is probably a confessional hymn that Paul incorporated into his epistle. Galatians 4:4–5 and its succinct presentation of the roles of the Father and the Son in redemption is likely an early Christian creed as well.

Appending verse 6 to this confession gives us an expression of our Trinitarian faith. The Apostles' Creed may even be modeled on Galatians 4:4–6, for like this passage it describes the Father's sending of the Son, the incarnation of the Son and the redemption He purchased, and the procession of the Holy Spirit. In any case, Paul in verse 6 defines one of the benefits of salvation and assures Christians of our union with Christ as God's children. Having made Jews and Gentiles His heirs through faith in Jesus, not works of the Law, the Father has given His people the “Spirit of his Son.” Christ's work puts us in position as sons and heirs of God. The Holy Spirit gives us the experience of sonship.

It is the Spirit of God who enables us to call our Creator, “Abba.” We must be careful lest the familiarity with which we use this endearing term leads us to take lightly the privilege of having God as our Father. Abba was the intimate, Aramaic term used within Jewish families in the first-century AD and is also the manner in which Jesus addresses God (see Mark 14:36). Religions devised by men tend to view their deities as distant and unable to relate personally to creation. God Himself in His revelation tells us that He desires a close, familial relationship with His people and, importantly, that He is able to have one.

Spiritual gifts are important (1 Corinthians 12), but they are not the main proof that we have the Spirit. Our ability to relate to God as our loving Father shows that we have the Spirit, and if we have the Spirit, we also have Christ (v. 3).

Coram Deo

Some Christians have had bad experiences with their parents and find it hard to relate to God as their Father. But while the deeds of our parents influence our understanding of God's fatherhood, we must always remember that He is a perfect father, not prone to the faults of men and always concerned to protect us and provide for our well-being. God our Father never withholds good gifts from His children, and we can trust Him with all that we are.

Pray for the World

Lord, as a punishing drought befalls the nations of the Horn of Africa, we plead for Your mercy upon the citizens of Somalia – long faced with internal strife and economic hardship, and now, severe famine. We pray for aid to pour into the land, and lives – especially of the innocent children – be spared and saved. We pray for good leaders with compassion and courage, vision and capability, to arise to help lead this nation out of its decades of hardship. We pray for all who seek to exploit this situation and the people of this land to be brought to task and ruin. Lord have mercy!

Pray for Singapore

Lord, we pray for the leaders of our nation to be men and women who uphold Your standards of morality, courageously withstanding the onslaught of the fallen of our world which seeks to corrupt nations and turns its citizens toward sinful ways. Grant our leaders Your protection and care, and teach them to trust in You and Your righteous ways and truth. Let the attacks of the enemy upon our nation to be readily identified and thwarted by the upright; and let all resident in this land grow to appreciate and support our government for their defence of godly morals and ways

Pray for SACC

Lord, we give thanks for our parents – not always perfect, but always endeavouring to give us the best. Bless them, and grant that they may know You more intimately and love You more dearly with each passing day.

We lay before Your feet this week:

1. Our thanksgiving for the EC Retreat just past, for the word and ministry brought to us by Bishop Ng Moon Hing, and Your kind presence in our midst to minister and bind in Your love. May the work started within us there continue to flourish and bloom.
2. Our prayers for all wedded couples, to be renewed in their relationship with each other and You each new day; growing steadily in knowledge and love of each other through all the days of their lives, till You call us home.
3. Our hosts these past two years, Saint Hilda's Primary School, giving thanks for their kind understanding and hospitality; praying that all their staff be full of Your love, wholeheartedly giving of themselves to Your service.
4. Our coming return to SACH, for the renewal of longstanding ties and rejuvenation of past ministries, as well as open doors for new outreaches.
